College has support on sports field plans

LIZZY BUCHAN

STUDENTS have gathered more than 100 signatures to show their support for an application to improve their college playing fields.

The Sixth Form prefect team at Newmarket College organised the petition in support of the application to provide two sports pitches, a multi-use games area and new changing rooms.

The new facilities are linked to a controversial planning application by Sainsbury's which would see a 6,636 sq m store built at the front of the site, on Fordham Road, as well as funding the college's sports pitches.

Head girl of Newmarket College, Lauren McGivern said: "We went to the town council to speak in favour of the proposals last year but they sadly refused to support us.

"We decided to set up our own petition in the hope that the district council planning committee will see how much everyone wants to see the existing fields improved.

"We have our fingers crossed that the application will be approved when it goes to committee."

Opportunity to quiz the candidates

BUSINESS owners can quiz the candidates hoping to become the first Police and Crime Commissioner for Suffolk.

Elections will be held on November 15 for the new role, where the commissioner will be responsible for budgets and hiring and firing the top staff as well as setting local priorities.

Suffolk Chamber is hosting The Grand Inquisition on Tuesday at Suffolk New College, in Rope Walk, Ipswich.

Members of the business community will be able to question the candidates on how they plan to support businesses.

Tony Addison, board director at the Suffolk Chamber, said: "Two-thirds of small firms experience crime and fraud at a cost of up to £3,000 per business each year.

"That is why police help and engagement is critical to reduce this burden and why the role of PCC is important."

The current candidates are Jane Basham, Labour; David Cocks, Independent; Bill Mountford, UKIP; and Tim Passmore, Conservative.

Chris Soule, from the Federation of Small Businesses, said: "In Suffolk the business community has a very good outcome-based relationship with the police and the authority, better than in any other county in this region.

"We want that to continue which is why this event is a good time to come together and really quiz the candidates on what their priorities are."

Registration starts at 5.30pm before the main event which begins at 7.30pm.

To apply to attend please go to www.suffolkchamber.co.uk.

Crafty youngsters take notes of challenge

PUPILS showed their artistic side by making a huge mural of Post-it notes on Wednesday.

More than 1,000 staff and students at Newmarket College got involved in the Big Draw challenge by taking 20 minutes out of the day to design a Post-it note.

Crafty youngsters from Exning and Paddocks primary schools came up to the college to join in the fun and the year six pupils stayed for an extra hour to get a glimpse of secondary school life.

Lauren Carr, expressive arts teacher at the college, said: "The Big Draw is run by The Campaign for Drawing, whose work will finish when the words 'I can't draw' are dropped from our vocabulary. A great time was had by all."

Frankel's career to be celebrated at museum

LIZZY BUCHAN

THE greatest achievements of Newmarket's finest racehorse will be on show at a unique exhibition next month.

Following Frankel's swansong at Ascot on Saturday, the National Horseracing Museum, in High Street, will host a selection of images spanning the racehorse's entire career – which saw him reign unbeaten in all 14 races.

Chris Garibaldi, director of the museum, said: "We are really excited about hosting the photographic exhibition which looks at Frankel, and Frankel in the context of Newmarket.

"He's a horse that has captured the public imagination and it is a wonderful opportunity to reflect that."

The annual winter exhibition at the National Horseracing Museum will feature images by the Innovative Image Company which spans the racehorse's whole career.

Colin Rosie, of the Innovative Image Company, said: "We have been following Frankel from his first race because we thought he was a special horse.

"Now everybody is talking about Frankel but many people have never seen images of his first race.

"We will probably never see a horse like this in our lifetime."

The free exhibition will be on show in gallery five from November 19 and run until February 10, despite the closure of parts of the museum for refurbishment.

Visitors will be able to view pictures from Frankel's first races in Newmarket and Doncaster in 2010, which have not been widely available until recently.

It seems the town cannot get enough of Sir Henry Cecil's four-year-old, and there have been calls for a statue to be erected in honour of the superstar horse.

Jane Chapple-Hyam, a trainer at Cadland Cottage Stable, said a statue of Frankel should be put up at the roundabout at the top of the High Street.

She said: "I think it would be a nice idea to remember such a champion. We have the statue of the stallion at one end of the town representing the stud farms and Frankel at the other representing racing."

SIMPLY THE BEST: Frankel remained unbeaten in all 14 races of his career.

Tribunal rules on suspension

A PARISH council chairman who was suspended from his post in March has had the complaint upheld by a tribunal.

Roderick Humphries, former chairman of Cheveley Parish Council, was found to have brought his office into disrepute during a meeting on September 13 last year after he said he would switch the ward he represented to allow the meeting to go ahead.

Under the parish council standing orders, each meeting must contain at least four members of the parish council and one representative from both the North and South wards.

At the meeting on September 13 last year there was no representative from the North ward and Cllr Humphries said he would represent the North, despite being a councillor for the South ward.

He was suspended as chairman by East Cambridgeshire District Council standards committee on March 29 and he launched an appeal against the district council's decision.

A first tier tribunal heard Cllr Humphries' appeal on October 3 and upheld the complaint against him but said the decision to suspend Cllr Humphries was "wholly disproportionate to the breach". It also found Cllr Humphries did not need to undergo councillor training as was suggested by the standards committee.

Case sent to crown court

A MAN accused of dangerous driving and burglary will have his case heard in crown court.

Magistrates in Cambridge sent the case against Carl Scarrow, of St Johns Close, Mildenhall, to the crown court when he appeared via a video link from Peterborough prison on Thursday.

He is accused of driving a Ford Fiesta dangerously on a number of roads in Fordham and Burwell and failing to stop when directed by police on September 18.

On the same day, it is also alleged that he burgled Fordham Garden Centre, in Market Street, Fordham and stole two charity boxes belonging to Magpas and East Anglian Ambulance, a till, and a body warmer, and attempted to burgle a property in Abbey Place, Fordham.

The 31-year-old did not indicate a plea and has been remanded in custody until his plea and directions hearing on November 16.

Classic musical is half-term show

YOUNGSTERS will be busy over half-term performing in a classic musical.

The Kings Theatre, in Fitzroy Street, will be transformed into 19th century Siam as the Young Nomads put on a performance of The King and I.

Richard Roger's much-loved musical tells the story of Anna, an English school teacher who falls in love with the King of Siam, now modern day Thailand.

The performance will run from Saturday to November 3 with performances daily at 7.30pm. There will also be a matinee at 4pm on November 3.

Tickets cost £12 each with concessions at £10. Call the box office on (01638) 663337.

Punch knocked out two teeth

A MAN had two teeth knocked out after being punched in the face.

The 23-year-old was walking with friends between All Saints Road and Kingston Passage, in Newmarket, at 1.15am on Sunday when a man he had seen earlier in the evening ran up to him and hit him.

The suspected attacker is described as white, thin and around 6ft 2in tall, with long spiky hair. He was wearing a dark checked shirt and spoke with a French accent.

Anyone with any information should call Suffolk Police on 101.

Kirsty takes top title at charity ball

A DANCE student who described herself as "just an ordinary girl" was named Miss Cambridgeshire 2013 during a ceremony at Dullingham Polo Club on Saturday.

Kirsty Bentley, 21, of Bury St Edmunds, was crowned the fairest of them all at the White Tie and Diamonds charity ball.

Despite being from Suffolk, Kirsty was able to enter and will represent Cambridgeshire in the Miss England 2013 finals in June.

Kirsty said: "I was a bit surprised to be honest as I have never done anything like this before.

"It didn't really sink in until today that I am going to Miss England in 2013 but it's amazing."

Kirsty, who is studying for a degree in dance and culture at the Surrey University, was chosen from thousands of entrants for the finals at the glittering charity ball.

The 15 finalists strutted their stuff on three themed catwalks, kicking off with 'A Day at the Races' before moving on to 'Sport and Fitness' and then 'Evening'.

Their performances were judged by a panel made up of Mark Wright, from The Only Way Is Essex, Amy Willerton, the current Miss London, Rachel McGuiness, of Sandra Reynolds Model Agency, Georgie Campbell, editor of Velvet Magazine, and Richard Goss, founder of Venus Hair and Beauty.

WELL DONE: Kirsty Bentley is congratulated by Mark Wright, formerly of The Only Way is Essex. CP

During the competition the wannabe beauty queens raised money for the charity Beauty with a Purpose, which supports disadvantaged children.

Kirsty raised £1,400, the highest of all the finalists, by organising a 5km run, holding a family fun day and putting on a music night.

When asked about her win, she said: "It's just the greatest thing. It means the world to me.

"I'm just an ordinary girl but I have worked so hard to achieve what I have.

"I would love to inspire girls to achieve their dreams."

Tiffani Barett, of Highfield Event Group which organised the event, praised Kirsty for her fundraising efforts.

She said: "All in all we have raised in the region of £10,000 for charity.

"It was a really nice atmosphere and because there were a lot of local people there, it felt like everyone knew everyone."

Petition backs college's plans

Newmarket Town Council said it would not support the application which would eventually see up to 90 new homes built on the site as well as a cinema, shops and restaurants.

Councillors were concerned the town would lose 12.8 acres of open space if the George Lambton Playing Fields were turned into sports pitches and this would not be replaced until a later stage in the application.

Cllr Rachel Hood, chair of the town council's development and planning committee, said:"Of course we want these kids to have playing fields but what about other people using these playing fields?

"The people of Newmarket want to be able to use them."

Dr Bob Cadwalladr, principal of Newmarket College, said it was important to remember the application for the sports facilities, which was put in by Suffolk County Council and town mayor George Lambton, was separate to the application by the supermarket.

He said: "We have developed the plans with Sainsbury's and George Lambton as they are prepared, if they can get permission, to invest a significant amount in improving facilities at the college."

Dr Cadwalladr said the college would seek other sponsorship for the project if the deal fell through but they needed to first obtain planning permission for the work.

He added: "The decision of the town council was more about Sainsbury's and less about the advantage to young people."

Three other supermarkets are also jostling for space in the town.

Morrison's is hoping to open a new store in Exning Road, while Tesco wishes to expand its Fordham Road site and Asda is expected to put in an application soon.

Forest Heath District Council planning committee will discuss the applications at a later date.

Partnership hailed as 'fantastic idea'

■ LIZZY BUCHAN

NEWMARKET could be one of the first towns in the UK to attain a customer service status recognised all over the world.

The town council voted unanimously on Monday to become a partner in the World Host project, where front of shop staff would receive special training to teach them to "go the extra mile".

Worcester is also working to become a World Host recognised destination but Newmarket hopes to pip them to the post.

Isabelle Barrett, town clerk, said volunteers at this summer's London Olympics went through World Host's one-day training course which contributed to the wonderful atmosphere at the Games.

She said: "It's a fantastic opportunity for Newmarket."

To attain World Host status the town must designate a catchment area and a minimum of 25 per cent of businesses from that area would have to send 50 per cent of their front line staff on the course.

The town clerk said Forest Heath District Council and Suffolk County Council are subsidising the cost so it will only cost £15 per head.

West Suffolk College have offered to deliver the training without making any profits so teachers from the college will be trained.

They will come to Newmarket to teach participants to keep travel costs low.

Cllr David Hudson questioned whether it was fair to allow only some businesses to take part in the scheme.

He said: "If we are going to do it should be something that's inclusive not divisive."

Mrs Barrett said it would be too expensive to subsidise the project for every business in the town and it would be too difficult to persuade everyone to sign up.

She also explained the 25 per cent was a minimum threshold not a limit on the number of businesses involved.

Cllr Peter Hulbert said: "I think it's a fantastic idea.

"The only difficulty that's going to come from this is what the catchment area is."

The town clerk said the catchment area was likely to be the businesses in High Street and the surrounding streets, such as Sun Lane and The Guineas, and said the Retailers Association was in support of the project.

Cllr Warwick Hirst said: "At £15 each, that's a bargain whichever way you think about it."

Participants would also receive a NVQ level two qualification which would last for two years after completing the course.

Book your tickets now for Horseshoes awards night

THE nominations are all in – now all you need to do is book your tickets for the Horseshoes 2012 awards evening.

The News is media partner for the event which is being held on Saturday, November 17 at Newmarket Racecourse.

The top four nominations in most categories now go through to a final vote on the night whilst some winners such as top farrier, top vet and top bloodstock agent will be chosen for receiving the most nominations.

Details are in the panel on this page.

Organiser Howard Jones said: "It is Newmarket's only awards so it is a really important event to support.

"We recognise all different aspects of the racing business and it's specific, unlike other awards which cover the whole country.

"Their are a few awards with more than four names listed as the voting was tied, so hence some categories have five nominations."

Many of the awards are sponsored by businesses in the town such as top racing personality, which is sponsored by Rossdales, and top playboy jockey, sponsored by the Heaven club, in Newmarket High Street.

Seven of the awards will be announced on the night following the results of voting on the nomination forms.

Winners will receive trophies designed specially for this year's awards.

Tickets for the black tie event cost £50 and include dinner and wine as well as a welcome drink.

Guests at the event have the opportunity to vote on the night.

Please contact Mr Jones for tickets on (01359) 270733. Visit our website at www.newmarket-news.co.uk

Celebrate by cooking with Ged

LEARN how to cook like a professional chef at a demonstration on Friday.

Ged Sharrocks will be revealing the secrets behind his signature dishes at The Riverside House Hotel, in Mill Street, Mildenhall, from noon to 1pm as part of the 600th anniversary celebration of the Mildenhall Charter.

All the dishes will be made from fresh produce from Mildenhall market and budding chefs will be able to sample delicious scones from Emily's Tea Room, in Market Place.

Cllr David Bowman, of Forest Heath District Council, said: "This will be an opportunity to see local chefs demonstrating their talent as well as showing what Mildenhall market has offer and encourage people to shop locally."

Coco makes special visit

A SPANIEL paid a special visit to residents of a care home.

Seven-year-old Coco called in to see tenants of Exning Court, in Cotton End Road, as part of a 'Pets as Therapy' charity initiative, which organises pet visits to hospitals to provide comfort for the vulnerable people.

All 25 residents in the supported accommodation came to play with Coco, who has visited the home before.

Matt Blackledge, head of housing at Exning Court, said: "This is the first time every single tenant has come to see her. Everyone had a fantastic time meeting her and making a fuss over her."

Another furry visitor is on the cards as a miniature pony called Bambi will drop in on November 23, dressed as a reindeer.

Church youngsters smash cyclothon target

YOUNG people used pedal power on Saturday to raise money for the trip of a lifetime.

The team of 11 youngsters from Burwell Baptist Church worked up a sweat by joining others on exercise bikes to cycle 939 miles collectively, smashing their 750-mile target – the distance from east to west across Zambia.

Money raised during the cyclothon will help fund a two-week mission to Zambia in August, where the team will work with Tear Fund, a charity combating poverty in the developing world.

Lesley Martin, who will be accompanying the youngsters, said: "The cyclothon went really well, 48 people came and did a stint on the bikes."

Police hunt van driver as girl, 9, is accosted

A MAN who accosted a 9-year-old girl in Lakenheath is wanted by police.

The girl was walking home along The Mallards at 3.30pm on Monday, October 15, when the man got out of a black Mercedes van and touched her on the shoulder.

She fled and he did not follow her.

The van driver was described as aged between 50 and 60, of average build, with brown and grey hair and pale skin. He was wearing a black T-shirt, grey trousers and trainers.

LIZZY BUCHAN

The van had no rear windows.

Police said it may be linked to an incident at 7.45pm the same day, when a 32-year-old woman was grabbed by a man while walking her dog in Highlands.

He asked her to come with him and clutched her arm but she walked away and called police.

The man was described as about 6ft 2in, white and aged 30 and 40.

He was wearing a camouflage coat, dark trousers, boots and a black hat and was walking a black labrador.

Police are conducting patrols in the area. Call 101 with information or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Jamie sends out thanks for votes

A BOYBAND are racing for the finish line after making it through to next week's X Factor.

Union J, including Newmarket's Jamie Hamblett, received complimentary feedback from the judges for their performance of 'When Love Takes Over' by Kelly Rowland.

Former stable lad Jamie, who used to work at Clarehaven Stables, said on Twitter: "Thanks to all of you for supporting us. Really means a lot."

Urban duo MK1 were sent home after the vote went to deadlock for the third week in a row, leaving only 10 acts left.

Town set for first farmers market

CUPCAKES, chutneys and crafts will be on offer at a new festive farmers market.

The first market will take place on Saturday, November 3, at the Memorial Hall, in High Street, as part of plans to encourage shoppers to come to Newmarket.

Stalls will be open from 10am to 2pm and refreshments will be on hand to power thirsty shoppers.

Organisers are hoping to hold a market on the first Saturday of every month from February onwards.

To find out more go to www.themarketplace.org.uk.

Six-car pile-up in fog on A14

SIX cars were involved in a pile-up on a foggy A14 yesterday.

The accident happened on the westbound carriageway near Newmarket at 7.20pm, and blocked two lanes, triggering lengthy queues. No serious injuries were reported.

Fog also caused delays on the A142 between Ely and Stuntney caused by a car leaving the road at 7.40am.

Shield racegoers from the wind

EVERY now and then we venture to Newmarket to watch the racing, and were there for Frankel's last gallop.

The winds that blow off The Fens are really cold and strong. When the Premium enclosure punters have forked out for a pleasant afternoon out they should be given some sunny shelter from the prevailing winds. The Premium grandstand could surely be given a 10ft high glass screen in inclement weather to afford some shelter to their poor wizened hands and faces.

Perhaps through your good newspaper I could make a plea to the Newmarket managers to consider some shelter from the weather on race days. The small coffee shop is in a deep, cold shadow!

Until then I shall watch from my sofa, with tea and toilet within reach.

JANET Gill welcomed everyone to the Phoenix Club on October 10.

The speaker was Marie Brown from the Ely branch of Inheritance and Legal Services, accompanied by Clare Putterill.

Marie gave a very informative talk on the importance of making a will and other matters.

Members were invited to ask questions following her talk. Janet gave a vote of thanks. Refreshments were served and Jill Powley organised the raffle. Names were taken for the Christmas meal. Janice showed members a slide show of her recent holiday.

The minibus to King's Lynn was due to pick up at the usual points today. Janice Kinnear brought the meeting to a close with a selection of readings.

Vera Seal welcomed everyone to the meeting of the Over 60s Club in the Pavillion on October 12.

While the men played dominoes in the adjoining room the ladies enjoyed a fashion show by the Edinburgh Woollen Mill. Christine Peachey gave the commentary on the autumn/winter outfits worn by the models.

The models were Mary Heaps, Ruth Ginn, Ann Willett, Diane Wheeling, Maureen Hardingham and Maureen Fitt.

Sheila Knight thanked Christine and all the models for taking part.

Vera organised the raffle and the ladies served tea and biscuits. The meeting closed with the singing of the club hymn.

Heartbeat Health Walk: 35 walkers joined Liz Gwinnett, David Clark and Laurie Budd for the three-mile walk around Soham on October 8. Refreshments were available at A-Tasca, The Ship and Saucy Megabytes following the walk.

On Thursday afternoon, 11 members of the Scrabble Club met at the library. New members are very welcome. The next meeting is this Thursday from 2.30-4.30pm. The £1 entry includes tea and biscuits.

Tribute match

A CHARITY cricket match has raised more than £1,500 for Cancer Research UK in a touching tribute to the memory of a former teacher from Burwell.

The money was raised to honour cricket enthusiast David Gibson who lost his battle to stomach cancer in May this year, and was presented to fundraisers at the Cancer Research UK branch in Regent Street, Cambridge.

A former teacher at the Leys School in Cambridge, David set up Burwell Cricket Club, before emigrating to Australia 10 years ago.

His wife Anne and son Philip flew over for the event.

Rose Morrow, a fundraiser for the charity's Cambridge branch and a good friend of Anne and David, said: "David was a wonderful, gentleman and was very highly thought of."

Following the match Anne and Philip made the inaugural presentation of the David Gibson Youth Cup to the young player of the season, Daniel Knight.

The charity match will now be held every year to raise money for Burwell Cricket Club.

THE Chippenham and Snailwell Horticultural Society held its autumn flower show in the village hall.

Although there were not as many entries as in past years, the standard of exhibits was very high; in the floral classes, for each exhibit, a note was written by the judges.

It was interesting to learn how arrangements could be improved or how a judge really approved the exhibit.

Several trophies were awarded for various classes. Congratulations to the winners and everyone who entered the show.

Rev Michael Banyard presented the trophies to the winners.

Brian Drake, society chairman, thanked all exhibitors.

A very big thank-you also to all the people who helped in any way, in preparing the village hall, selling raffle tickets, and refreshments.

Charity ball to honour Claire's loving memory

LIZZY BUCHAN

A FRIEND of a woman who died while running the London Marathon in April is organising a charity ball in honour of her pal who was "one in a million".

Claire Squires collapsed during the 26- mile race, just minutes from the finish line.

The 30-year-old hairdresser was running the marathon for the second time, despite being diagnosed with an irregular heartbeat.

Claire aimed to raise £500 for the Samaritans in memory of her brother Grant – who died of a drug overdose in 2001 – but after her tragic death, donations soared to nearly £1m.

Her close friend Lisa Snare, account manager at Retail Service Team, in Exning Road, Newmarket, has helped to organise The Winter Ball at Tattersalls, in High Street, on Saturday, November 10.

Lisa said: "Claire's loving and caring nature always shone through in everything she did.

CLOSE FRIENDS: Claire Squires, left, who died while running the marathon this year, and Lisa Snare, who is putting on a charity ball in her honour.

"She was really one in a million."

Lisa and Claire, of North Kilworth, in Leicestershire, girls met in 2008 while on holiday in Spain and their friendship continued after they returned to home.

She said: "I soon came to realise that Claire was a very caring and thoughtful person.

"She was a dedicated person and wanted to achieve her own goals whilst injecting a little fun, and as a bonus raise as much money for charity as possible."

All proceeds from the glamorous ball will go to the Squires Effect, which has chosen to support Rainbows charity, helping children and young people with life-threatening diseases, and Cardiac Risk in the Young.

Fellow organiser Karl Rutterford raised £2,500 for Help for Heroes at last year's Winter Ball, at the Brook, Soham, and they are hoping to match the total.

Lisa said Claire's family were "thrilled" at the event and added: "This helps to keep her memory alive."

Guests at the glittering bash will enjoy a champagne reception, a hog roast, a charity raffle and live music until the early hours.

Lisa said: "Claire would have been the first person to buy a ticket to an event like this."

Tickets cost £45 each for the black tie event and offers are available for group bookings.

To book tickets please call Karl 07515 950510 or Lisa 07734 823039 or email essenceparties@gmail.com.

Hit show on next week

THEATREGOERS will be treated to a rock musical next week.

The Bunbury Players will bring hit show The Little Shop of Horrors to the Jubilee Centre in Mildenhall.

The wacky show follows the story of florist Seymour who discovers a man eating plant among his seedlings.

Performances will take place at 7.30pm on November 1 and 2 and 2pm on November 3.

Tickets cost £8 for adults, £6 concessions and £26 for a family.

These can be bought from Milpets, in Market Place, Oasis Beauty, in Mill Street, or from the box office on (01638) 552330.

Theft case to resume

TWO men pleaded guilty to stealing items from a homeware shop.

Fred Armitage, 28, and David Armitage, 27, appeared at West Suffolk Magistrates Court charged with theft from Homebase in Oaks Drive, Newmarket, on September 27.

They were remanded on bail on the condition they do not go to the DIY shop and attend Newmarket Police Station twice a week.

They will return to the same court on November 1.

Inquest for top jockey

AN inquest will be held today into the death of a popular jockey.

Richard Fox, of Newmarket, died at West Suffolk Hospital on June 28 last year aged 57.

The inquest will take place at 10am at the Active Business Centre, St Andrews Street South, Bury St Edmunds.

Bikes taken from stable

TWO off-road bikes and a ride-on lawn mower were stolen from a stable block in Jarmans Lane, West Row, between midnight and 6.30am on October 1.

A John Deere ride-on mower was also taken. Anyone with information should call police on 101.

Pedal power set to earn £5,000 for hospice

THREE cyclists from Newmarket have pedalled more than 900 miles in nine days to raise money for a hospice charity.

Former postman Les Trim, 66, his son Alan, 26, and his old colleague Mick Adams, 60, cycled from Land's End to John O'Groats in support of St Nicholas Hospice Care, which provides end of life care to people in West Suffolk.

Les said the team had really enjoyed the nine-day trip in September and they had raised more than £4,700.

They still hope to improve on the total and reach £5,000.

"We did about 100 miles a day which is quite good for an old man."

Les said the idea to raise money came after a colleague of his died at St Nicholas Hospice.

"She was well looked after and I have learned a lot about the good work they do since."

To donate please go to www.justgiving.com/Les-Trim.

Public consultation is under way on merger

LIZZY BUCHAN

PROPOSALS for a merger between Cambridgeshire and Suffolk fire services will be put forward for public consultation after getting the green light from Suffolk County Council.

The cabinet agreed to pursue closer ties between Suffolk, Cambridgeshire and Peterborough fire and rescue services at a meeting on October 16 in a bid to make savings before more cuts are made.

The consultation will run from this week to January 14 before a final decision is taken by the full council in February.

The decision has to be taken by early next year otherwise it may have to be put on hold until after the next election.

Fire services in Suffolk and Cambridgeshire have been in collaboration since 2011 after the closure of Ipswich control centre.

Emergency calls from Suffolk are now handled at the control centre in Huntingdon.

Cllr Colin Spence, the cabinet member responsible for the fire service, said the decision was an important milestone.

He said: "With the increasing challenge to deliver budget savings and maintain a fire service that people value, at a time when further cuts are likely, it is crucial that we look at ways to work together to safeguard the service for the future."

Cllr Spence said the council's main priority was to retain front line services.

Andy Fry, Suffolk's chief fire officer, added: "Throughout this process we will be guided by our core principle which is to deliver the best possible service to the people of both counties, in a way that is fair and minimises the financial impact to taxpayers in Suffolk and Cambridgeshire."

Graham Stagg, chief fire officer for Cambridgeshire, said: "The financial situation for public sector organisations does not look like it is improving and we need to be prepared for the next Comprehensive Spending Review in 2015 in which it is likely that further cuts to fire and rescue service budgets will be made."

The merger will be looked at again by the Suffolk County Council's scrutiny committee in December before the final decision is taken in February.

To have your say go to www.suffolk.gov.uk or fill in a questionnaire, which will be distributed to libraries in the county later in the month.

Trust home closed by power fault

A POWER cut forced a National Trust property to close its Jacobean house.

The house in the grounds of tourist attraction Anglesey Abbey, Lode, closed because of an isolated power outage.

The rest of the site, including the tourist centre, restaurant, watermill and Hoe Fen wildlife discovery area remained open.

Problems with the house's power supply were spotted last Wednesday morning and the Trust closed it for the day while engineers worked to solve the fault.

Howard Cooper, from the National Trust, said: "We discovered a major power failure in the house.

"It is expected to take several hours to fix so we closed the house to visitors."

A spokeswoman for UK Power Networks said power was lost at 8.25am to three of its customers in Lode following a fault on the high voltage overhead network.

She added: "We apologise for any inconvenience.

"We would like to reassure our customers we worked as quickly as is safely possible to restore their electricity supplies."

Message is to be tolerant

MISCHIEF makers who throw eggs could face a criminal record this Hallowe'en.

Suffolk Police have called on retailers not to sell eggs to young people on October 30 and 31 and warned that throwing eggs could cause criminal damage.

They have also produced posters saying: "The occupants of this house kindly ask you not to call on Hallowe'en. Please respect our wishes."

Jenny Powell, chief inspector for community safety, said: "We hope that this year people will take a responsible attitude to Halloween.

"By repeating the measures that worked last year, we hope to keep the number of disturbances to a minimum.

"We don't want youngsters to think we are picking on them and trying to spoil their fun. Indeed I would also like to appeal to the public in general to be a little more tolerant of the behaviour of those celebrating Hallowe'en."

Jail term given to violent bully

A WOMAN jumped barefoot from an upstairs window to escape an attack by her violent partner, a court heard.

Craig Curtis, 28, described by a judge as a "drunken violent bully", had been drinking heavily and smoking cannabis in the hours leading up to the incident in Exning on May 4.

Ipswich Crown Court heard how the victim had been confronted by Curtis who began to "rant and rave" while brandishing a fishing knife which he used to stab her in the foot as she cowered on a sofa.

Curtis ordered his girlfriend to "clean herself up" but then struck her on the head and body, inflicting bruising, and biting her ear to expose the cartilage.

Prosecutor Robert Sadd said that his partner had been terrified and jumped barefoot from a first-floor window before running to a neighbour's house for help. The knife wound required three stitches.

'DRUNKEN, VIOLENT BULLY': Craig Curtis got 32 months for attacking his girlfriend

Mitigating for Curtis, Charles Myatt said: "At the time of the offence he was locked into a cycle of excessive alcohol consumption which led to very poor thinking. He had also smoked cannabis."

Since the attack, Curtis had stopped using alcohol and cannabis and knew he must never take either again.

The court heard that Curtis launched the attack while on bail for causing unnecessary suffering to his partner's dog.

He had killed the animal with a baseball bat after it urinated on him, the court heard.

Cambridge magistrates subsequently jailed Curtis in August for 18 weeks after hearing how he had beaten the Staffordshire bull terrier, Bruno, to death after hanging it from a bench by its collar.

Curtis, of Chapel Street, Exning, appeared at Crown Court for sentence after pleading guilty at an earlier hearing to a charge of unlawful and malicious wounding of his partner.

Jailing Curtis for 32 months, Judge Rupert Overbury told him: "You are a drunken, violent bully who has enjoyed the manipulation of your partner using violence or the threat of it to get your own way."

Trial date set for bird owner

A BIRD owner will face trial for allegedly possessing and then not providing 12 goldfinches with a suitable environment to live.

Albert Brinkley, of White Mullein Drive, Red Lodge, did not attend Cambridge Magistrates' Court on Thursday when the date for his trial was set to January 21.

The 55-year-old is accused by the RSPCA of having 12 goldfinches in his possession at Silhalls Close, Newmarket, on March 14, and also of not taking steps to provide these birds with a suitable environment to live and not allowing them to exhibit normal behaviour patterns.

He pleaded not guilty on August 9.

Crane is talk subject

LEARN about the common crane with a talk at a nature reserve on November 4.

Two breeding pairs have made a home at RSPB Lakenheath Fen, between Hockwold and Lakenheath villages.

The talk called Cranes in Britain will take place from 11am to noon at Lakenheath Fen visitors centre.

Tickets cost £5 for children or £2.50 for children while RSPB members pay half price. To book call (01842) 863400 or e-mail lakenheath@rspb.org.uk.

Wear a hair of the horse

EQUINE lovers can remember a beloved steed with horse hair jewellery.

The Burnished Horse will exhibit its horse hair bracelets at the Art, Craft and Design Show from November 9 to 11 at the Millenium Grandstand, Newmarket Racecourse.

The bracelets can be woven from your own horse's tail or from stock horse hair.

Diane Faulks, owner of the company, said: "I love the idea of exhibiting in a town so steeped in horse culture."

For more information, go to www.theburnishedhorse.co.uk.

WORK ETHIC: some of the students at the Racing for Jobs event. CP

They're off – to careers in racing

STUDENTS were given a glimpse of the careers on offer in the horse racing industry.

Thirty students from Anglia Ruskin University and Oxford Brookes visited Dalham Hall Stud, in Newmarket, as part of the inaugural Racing for Jobs event.

The horse lovers learnt about the wide variety of careers in racing, an industry which employs more than 100,000 people.

Thoroughbred management firm Darley Flying Start spoke to the undergraduates about their two-year training programme while the Hon Harry Herbert, founder of leading racehorse syndicate Highclere Thoroughbred Racing, and former Darley graduate Gina Brice also addressed the students.

After the talk they were taken for a tour of the stud and to Dubai Future Champions Day at the Newmarket Racecourse, where they heard Amy Weaver give a speech on her work as one of Britain's youngest trainers.

Amy Starkey, regional director of Jockey Club Racecourses, said: "We are delighted with the success of the first Racing for Jobs and especially the high-profile visit by university students to Dalham Hall Stud, where they were able to learn about their career development opportunities through the Darley Flying Start management training programme."

Takeover to bring £60m care boost

CARE homes in the county will benefit from £60m of investment after the county council approved plans to hand over current homes to a private company.

The existing 16 residential care homes and eight community wellbeing centres will be replaced by 10 purpose-built homes owned by Care UK, including one in Mildenhall.

Suffolk County Council's cabinet voted unanimously to support the takeover at a meeting last Tuesday.

Construction will begin in April on Wamil Court, which will be replaced by a new centre on the site of Great Heath Primary School in St John's Close.

LIZZY BUCHAN

The Wamil Court home was built in the 1960s and the county council hope the new centre, which will open in April 2014, will be better suited to patients' needs.

Cllr Colin Noble, Suffolk County Council cabinet member for health and adult care, said: "The most vulnerable in society deserve the very best we can provide them – this deal represents that."

He said the number of older people in the county is expected to increase significantly in the next 20 years and the new care homes will have specialist dementia beds to meet rising demand.

He added: "By transferring our care homes and wellbeing centres to Care UK we will attract a significant amount of investment that otherwise would simply not be available."

He said social care workers would be allocated to each resident to make the transition as smooth as possible.

Staff will retain their jobs and be transferred over to Care UK.

However, Labour councillors hit back at the decision last Thursday, suggesting the finances were unclear and warned the county council to have a plan in place in case Care UK collapses, like Southern Cross in 2011.

Coffee at palace of King Charles I

A NEW café is serving up coffee with a slice of history.

Kings Coffee House, in Kingston Passage, Newmarket, has recently opened on the site of an old 17th century palace belonging to King Charles I.

Co-owner Paul Brodel, a television chef and cookery book author, said: "We were looking for office space and we just thought how amazing it was.

"It had been derelict for years, there were squatters living in it and the windows were all smashed.

"We feel like we are uncovering history."

He said local historian John Sutton, a former history professor at Anglia Ruskin University, had inspected the building and said the main function room was once a tennis court belonging to Charles I.

LIZZY BUCHAN

Paul explained that Oliver Cromwell, King Charles I and Thomas Fairfax met in the garden at the beginning of the Civil War in 1642 before the king fled to the north of England.

He said: "It's quite incredible. I'm so pleased we have opened it up to the public."

Paul said he was proud to be setting up a business in the town and creating jobs for people.

He praised other eateries in the town such as the Pantry, in the Guineas shopping centre, and said he wanted to come together with other restaurants and cafés to make Newmarket a culinary hotspot.

Paul added: "If we can create a feeling of 'come to Newmarket for great food' then that would be great.

"We are really excited and we are getting busier every day.

"The people of Newmarket have been fantastic in supporting us."

Kings Coffee House is open 8.30am to 5.30pm every day except Sunday, when it will open at the later time of 10.30am.

Architects add design nous

WHILE architects can be expensive, they don't have to be and their knowledge and experience can be worth its weight in gold.

As well as offering design expertise, architects can add value in lots of other ways.

They have technical knowledge, can help you negotiate the building-regulations, party-wall and planning process and can manage the project from start to finish, if you want them to, including finding and managing the builder, sub-contractors and consultants.

As they use these people regularly for projects, they may be able to get better prices than you can. They can help financially in other ways, too, such as devising the best design for your budget, improving energy efficiency and increasing your home's saleability and value.

A good first step is to go to the 'find an architect' section of the Royal Institute of British Architects' (RIBA) website – www.architecture.com.

When you've found some suitable candidates, find out if they're interested in your project and what sort of ideas and relevant experience they have. If you can see similar projects they've done, this will obviously give you a good idea of what to expect.

Bear in mind that it's really important to have a good relationship with your architect, as how you get on and work together can play a big part in the success, or not, of the project.

Once you've chosen an architect, drawing up a contract and giving them a clear brief is vital. Another important thing to establish is how you'll be paying them. Many architects take a percentage of the total cost of the project, but some charge for the time they spend on it and others charge a flat fee.

This is how Architect Your Home works, a company that has its head office in Richmond, south-west London, but has licensees all over the country.

Set up in 2001 by architects Hugo and Jude Tugman, it makes architectural services more transparent and accessible to homeowners because they just pay for what they need (by the hour or per service), as and when they need it.

The process starts with a four or seven-hour home visit, during which the architect measures up, discusses the project with you and comes up with some solutions (and drawings), which you can discuss and refine with them then and there.

If you decide not to go ahead, you don't have to, or if you want to continue, you can choose from a menu of services, some of which you may be able to do yourself; others you won't.

ADDING VALUE: Architects are able to deal with every stage of a project

"People don't necessarily want an architect to do everything – they are perfectly capable of doing some of it themselves, they just need some help," says Hugo Tugman.

He admits that homeowners can be daunted at the prospect of using an architect, but shouldn't be.

"Yes, we can help people to avoid getting their fingers burnt with cowboy builders and yes, we can help with statutory consents, but the main reason to use an architect is to make sure that you're not spending your money unwisely," he says.

"People are spending a lot of money and we want to make sure that they get the best possible result.

"We have a lot of instances where people say that they wish they'd used an architect. I saw a couple in Teddington, south-west London, who had a two-bedroom house and a second child on the way. They didn't want to move, but really needed a third bedroom and couldn't think of a way of getting one. I was able to come up with three solutions to give them a third bedroom.

"That's the kind of thing we get a lot – 'I never thought of that'."

Tiny Tom so precious after battle for survival

HOME SWEET HOME: Tom and Sue enjoy some time together. Picture: Amelia Bullett 864997

After three rounds of IVF, BBC Radio Cambridgeshire's Sue Dougan was almost ready to give up her dream of being a mum. And even when she discovered she was pregnant, it was just the start of an emotional rollercoaster journey. But now, with a beautiful son, she tells LOUISE MARTIN why she's walking on air...

WHEN their baby boy was born early, yet seemingly safe and well at 35 weeks, Sue Dougan and her husband Richard were over the moon.

The result of four gruelling rounds of IVF, Tom is particularly precious and, despite arriving a little earlier than expected on January 19 last year, both parents and doctors were happy that the little boy was strong and healthy.

But when Tom became gravely poorly with a rare bowel condition, doctors had to prepare the new parents for the worst.

The presenter of BBC Radio Cambridgeshire's afternoon show, Sue had always hoped to start a family of her own. "I wasn't one of those women who put family on the back burner because my career was more important," she says. "It's just that I didn't happen to meet Richard until I was 27, we got married when I was 30 and we started trying properly then."

Unfortunately, the couple were unable to conceive naturally so decided to try IVF. When they began in January 2008, women in the Eastern region were entitled to one round of NHS-funded treatment. When this wasn't successful, Sue and Richard privately funded two more rounds of the intensive treatment. Although Sue responded well to the drugs, neither resulted in pregnancy.

"After the third one, I came very close to saying 'no more'," remembers Sue. "It's physically taxing because of the drug regime you're on, so that takes a lot out of you; but the drugs drove me batty, frankly. The emotion of it was almost too much to bear.

"I also work in an environment full of 30-something women so everybody was pregnant, everybody was getting pregnant, and that's really tough to take when you're essentially childless and you know that your chances of having a child are dramatically reduced."

When the rules changed to allow up to three cycles of NHS-funded treatment, Sue and Richard decided to try again and the next cycle – their fourth – was successful. "It was very odd indeed to go suddenly from all the hope, all the expectation, to actually 'you're pregnant'," says Sue.

It should have been a happy time for the couple but, in the first few weeks of pregnancy, doctors had to break the news: Sue was pregnant with twins and it was highly likely she would miscarry one of her babies as a very slow heartbeat had been detected at a scan.

"You go from not being pregnant, to being pregnant, and then being pregnant with twins, to being told one of them might not be viable. It was a huge worry at the time and when we went back for a repeat scan the following week I had essentially miscarried as there was no longer a sign of a heartbeat. We were kind of braced for it, so to a certain degree it was okay."

Sue has been with the BBC for 13 years, seven-and-a-half of them in Cambridge. Passionate about her job, she worked throughout her pregnancy – in fact her maternity leave hadn't begun when she went into premature labour at 35 weeks.

Sue, who lives in Puckeridge, Hertfordshire, began leaking amniotic fluid and was admitted to her local hospital, the Queen Elizabeth II in Welwyn Garden City, for observation. Two days later she went into labour and Tom was born shortly afterwards. "He was born naturally, really quickly, in an 'oh my God, that fast kind of way'," she laughs. "It was a very straightforward, very rapid labour."

Tom weighed 5lb (a relatively healthy weight for a premature baby) and after a quick cuddle with his proud mum, he was taken to the Special Care Baby Unit (SCBU).

"We had been briefed that if he was born that week he would probably go into SCBU, so we had the expectation that he would need a degree of treatment, which he did. He just needed a little bit of help keeping warm and feeding."

Specialist help: Tom in neonatal care after being born early.

Over the next couple of days, Sue and Richard spent as much time as they were allowed with their son and he seemed to be progressing well. "There was a bit of concern over the fact that he hadn't done his first poo as that's a bit of a warning sign for premature babies that there's something going on with their tummies," explains Sue. "But even then there was no immediate concern; there was just a question mark over where he was proceeding."

But at just two days old Tom's health deteriorated dramatically and he was diagnosed with necrotising enterocolitis (NEC), a life-threatening bowel condition. NEC is much more common in premature rather than full-term babies, and is more likely in babies born at a very early gestation. It is a gastrointestinal disease in which tissues in the intestine become inflamed and a hole can develop, causing the contents of the bowel to leak into the stomach.

"I was on the postnatal ward and I got a call to go to the SCBU. I sat down in front of one of the neonatal team who told me in quite bold terms 'your baby's very sick, he needs to have surgery, we're preparing him for that now'."

The specialist neonatal transfer team, which is based at Addenbrooke's, was already on its way and doctors were preparing Tom to be moved to a specialist hospital.

"They didn't know where he would be going; it could have been as far away as Brighton or Nottingham," explains Sue. "They were literally ringing around all these hospitals and now I know what happens I can see what they were doing, but on the day it was like 'what do you mean you don't know where he's going?'

"I'm a grown-up, capable, articulate woman but I couldn't get the words out. We'd been through so much to have him, we'd had such a wobbly week and then they were telling me that at two days old he might not make it."

Eventually a place became available for Tom at Addenbrooke's and he was transferred by ambulance, with his frantic mum and dad following behind.

"I was so grateful it was Addenbrooke's," says Sue. "Partly because I know Cambridge so well, because I know Addenbrooke's so well; obviously I knew it is a teaching hospital and a centre of excellence. I felt reassured he was in safe hands."

Tom underwent an intricate four-hour surgery that evening to remove the infected part of his bowel. "I remember the consultant saying to me they wouldn't know how serious it was until they operate. It could be something small they could fix, or it might be that there was nothing they could do.

"I remember thinking, 'two days ago I wasn't a parent, two days ago he wasn't here, and now all of a sudden I'm a mum and I'm making these mammoth decisions over his future'. There was no way for it, I had to sign those consent forms, he had to have surgery; if he didn't there was no question over what could have happened."

Tom's surgery was a success and the infected part of his bowel was removed. A stoma was fitted to allow his bowel to recover, and the little boy's long recovery began.

Tom spent the next three-and-a-half weeks in the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit before he was moved to the Special Care Baby Unit.

Sue was advised to freeze her breast milk at the Addenbrooke's breast bank as when the infection was cleared, and Tom was ready to start feeding, breast milk would be the gentlest thing for his stomach. "They were literally feeding him 1mm of milk through a gravity tube system because they couldn't risk upsetting his stomach, and then they had to track his poo," explains Sue. "This went on for weeks and weeks and eventually, by week seven, he was well enough to tolerate larger quantities of milk and I was able to start breastfeeding him."

Tom was eventually discharged when he was eight-and-a-half weeks old and weighed 6lb. "We finally took him home on a Friday night at half past nine. We walked with him in his car seat out of the department and drove him home. It wasn't quite the homecoming we planned, but it was terrific."

Just 10 days later, Tom underwent reverse surgery on his stoma and he hasn't looked back since. "He's 20 months now and he's fine and hale and hearty," laughs Sue. "There are no problems eating – and no problems pooing!"

Sue and Richard will always be grateful to The Rosie and to show their support are avid fundraisers for The Rosie Hospital Campaign. Sue ran this year's London Marathon for the campaign – in an impressive 3:40:04 – and Richard will be following in her footsteps next April.

"When you see the level of support the medical team are giving on these tiny lives . . . I knew there and then we were going to have to do something to help."

Sue began running the same time as starting IVF, and actually ran the 2010 London Marathon a week before starting the treatment that led to Tom. "I started running to help me cope with the IVF, to help me get fitter and to put my head in a really good place. I knew I would pick it up again at some point after Tom was born. It felt like a nice turning of the circle to run it this year, and running for such a special cause was very different."

Sue has organised a unique event to support The Rosie Campaign. Called Wear Your Wedding Dress Night, on Friday, November 9, at Saffron Screen (based in Saffron Walden County High School), viewers can watch a special showing of Bridesmaids while wearing their wedding or bridesmaid dress. Tickets are £12, and proceeds will be donated to The Rosie Hospital Campaign. Visit www.saffronscreen.com/special-events/484-wear-your-wedding-dress-night.html.

Lesley to take over as chief of charity

LIZZY BUCHAN

A LEADING racing charity has appointed a new chief executive.

Former Channel Four racing presenter Lesley Graham will take over as head of Racing Welfare, a charity which supports people involved in the industry.

The current boss Cedric Burton will retire at the end of the year.

Lesley was a board member at the National Stud and had been running media training programme Racing for Change since 2010.

She said: "Racing Welfare provides an absolutely vital source of support to all those upon whom our sport depends.

NEW ROLE: Lesley Graham

"They are the backbone of the sport and I have no doubt that, despite the current economic circumstances, racing will ensure that the charity continues to meet its aims and expand its activities."

She said she was excited to return to the charitable sector as she had worked with the Animal Health Trust and The Princess Royal Trust for Carers in the past.

Joey Newton, chairman of the charity, said: "Lesley clearly has a huge amount of experience and I have no doubt she will dedicate herself to the task of implementing the changes necessary to secure our future successes."

He also praised the outgoing chief executive and said: "In his nine years as chief executive, Cedric has taken our welfare services to many more people in need."

New pub sign shows campaign's support

LIZZY BUCHAN

A PUB has joined the fight to stop large scale development in a village near Newmarket by changing its sign.

The Wheatsheaf pub, in Chapel Street, Exning, replaced its normal sign with a poster reading 'No to Large Scale Development' last week as part of Exning Action Group's protest at the planned construction of 370 houses at two sites in the village.

Members of Exning Action Group have been campaigning hard after outline planning permission was submitted to Forest Heath District Council for 120 new houses in Burwell Road and they expect permission for 250 new houses in Laceys Lane to be submitted shortly.

NEW LOOK: the sign at The Wheatsheaf pub.

Simon Cole, a spokesman for Exning Action Group, said more than 80 residents attended a meeting on October 10 and the group have gathered a petition with more than 900 signatures.

He added: "We just hope that Forest Heath will think that if everyone in the village is against it then it makes sense not to do it."

The new development would mean a 43 per cent increase in the number of houses in the village and villagers feel that there are not enough resources to support so many new people.

Mr Cole added: "There's nowhere to park, this village was built for horses and carts. This is how you get urban sprawl.

"If we wanted a high street why wouldn't we be living in Newmarket, instead of in a village?"

Forest Heath extended the deadline for comments on the consultation and will make a decision on the development at a later date.

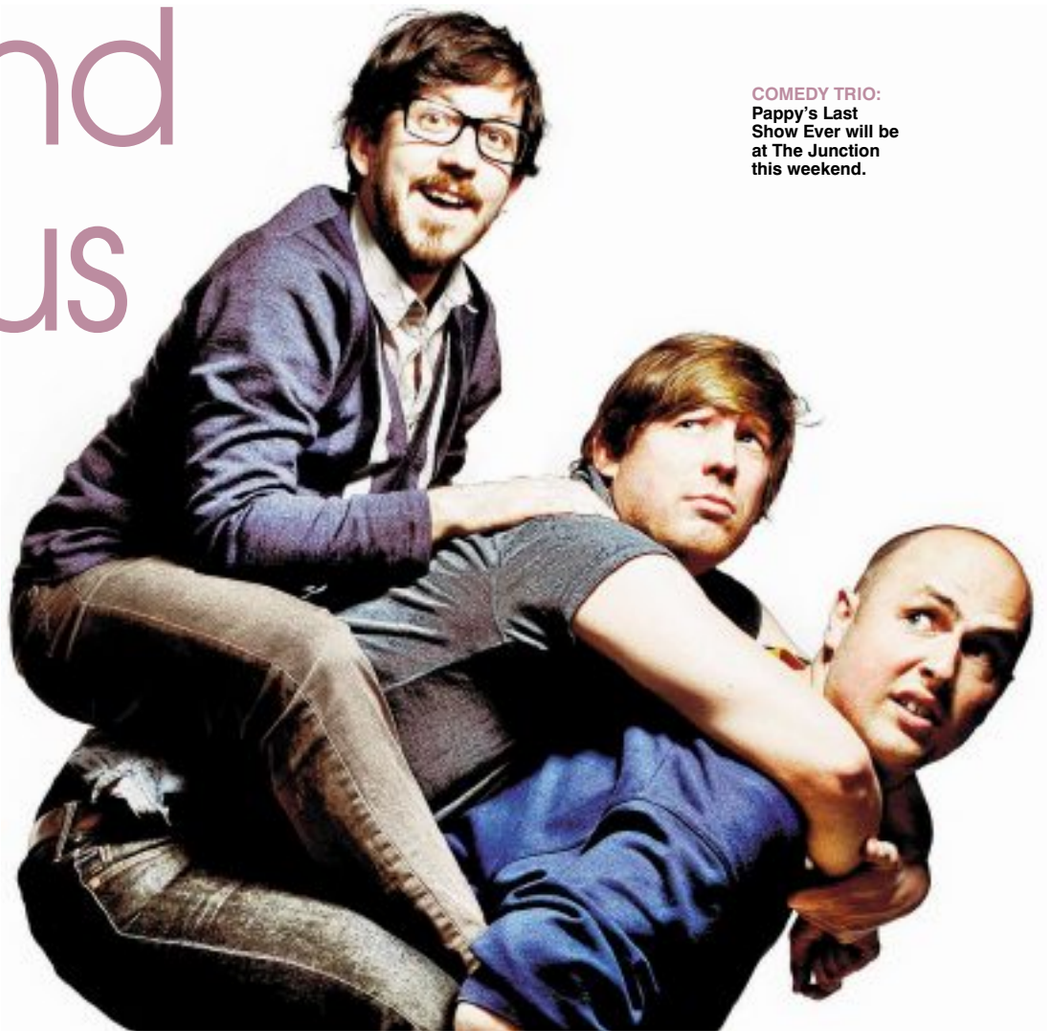
Live and hilarious



COMEDY TRIO: Pappy's Last Show Ever will be at The Junction this weekend.

FOSTER'S Edinburgh Comedy Award nominees and five-star sketch-comedy act Pappy's are back from their most triumphant Edinburgh Festival run and will roll into The Junction in Cambridge on Sunday.

Their new show, Last Show Ever, parades the hilarious trio intertwining effortless sketches, songs, silliness and nostalgia through the eyes of an older reminiscing Pappy's. Whether or not they are actually throwing in the towel, one thing is certain – Last Show Ever is their biggest and best yet.

It was recently announced that Pappy's have won their own series on BBC3 – called The Secret Dude Society. The team are known for their hugely successful podcasts of last year, the iTunes Best New Comedy Podcast of 2011, Pappy's Bangers and Mash and Loaded LAFTA Funniest Podcast, Pappy's Flatshare Slamdown. Pappy's have also written and hosted their own game show for Channel 4, the Mr and Mrs Hotty Hott Hot Show (E4), and separately appeared in TV shows such as 8 Out Of Ten Cats (Ch4), Meet The Parents (E4), Miranda (BBC1), Never Mind The Buzzcocks (BBC2) and Watson and Oliver (E4). But 2012 sees them back doing what they do best – returning to the road to perform peerless live sketch comedy.

Pappy's is the sketch troupe creation of Matthew Crosby, Ben Clark and Thomas Parry. They were nominated for the Edinburgh Comedy Award Best Show at the 2012 fringe and the (if.comedy) award in 2007 for their second fringe show and, since then, have performed live all over the world.

They have appeared in their own pilots for Channel 4 and Radio 4 – they were the first British act to perform at the San Francisco SketchFest and in 2011 completed their third national tour.

■ Pappy's: The Last Show Ever, The Junction, Cambridge, Sunday. Doors open 7pm, show 8pm. Tickets £12 advance. Contact (01223) 578000 / *www.junction.co.uk

Our 12-page lifestyle magazine – every weekend in the Cambridge News

What a great idea!

IT'S freezing outside, the nights are drawing in and we're only halfway through the school term. But wait! October does have one thing going for it – the fantastic Festival of Ideas.

If you're not familiar with said festival, then you're in for a treat. Every year, Cambridge University opens its doors for a 12-day celebration of the arts, humanities and social sciences, with everything from celebrity speakers and fascinating exhibitions to musical performances and children's workshops. And, according to communications officer Mandy Garner, this one – the fifth – looks set to be the best yet.

"Last year about 12,000 people came, and this year there are more than 170 different events, so it's grown quite substantially," she says.

"There's a huge range of events for people of all ages, and a lot of them are really hands-on and exciting. And the theme this year is Dreams and Nightmares, so there are all sorts of really fun things we've done with that.

"But the main family day is on Saturday and every year it's just packed with things to do.

"This time we have author Lauren Child: she's known for the Charlie and Lola books, but she's going to be talking about her new book, Ruby Redfort, which is aimed at older children.

"We've got poet Benjamin Zephaniah and Andy Stanton, who writes the Mr Gum books, as well – so that's going to be great.

"The authors are always really popular: we've had some really big names in the past and they've been absolutely packed out, so we do suggest that people pre-book, just in case."

As usual, most of the activities will be based at the university's Sidgwick Site, between West Road and Sidgwick Avenue.

POTS OF FUN: Prehistory Day at the Festival of Ideas is always a popular event.

"There'll be plenty of hands-on activities, like a junk puppetry workshop and circus workshops. And there's going to be a 'graffiti face-off': they can see graffiti artists at work, and then work with them to create some street art," says Mandy.

Other treats include a 'Tudor time machine', where costumed interpreters will teach children the art of braid-making, plenty of storytelling, a poetry workshop, fun with flowers and the chance to make sweet sounds in the music faculty.

And pint-sized Strictly fans will be pleased to know that the university Dancesport team will be in action too.

"They'll be doing a performance of ballroom and Latin American dancing, and then they teach people some of the steps," says Mandy.

Other family activities will be happening throughout the city too: at the University Library, children can learn about practising magic in medieval Egypt and make amulets to protect against creepy-crawlies; meanwhile Girton College will be opening its antiquities museum so that kids can meet the resident mummy, Hermione.

Over at the Cambridge Archaeological Unit in Storey's Way, there's the ever-popular Prehistory Day, where little people can try 'hunting' with a spear and making some pottery, while at the Museum of Zoology, creative kids can make a monster mask ready for Hallowe'en.

"This year's festival is going to be bigger and better than ever," says Mandy.

"It's basically opening up the university to enthuse and inspire people to see what the arts, humanities and social sciences have to offer – and it's going to be great fun."

■ The Cambridge University Festival of Ideas runs until November 4 and nearly all events are free. For the full line-up, visit www.cam.ac.uk/festivalofideas or call (01223) 766766.

Good Life star to visit

TELEVISION legend Penelope Keith makes a triumphant return to Cambridge Arts Theatre in an adaption of Keith Waterhouse's bestselling book Good Grief next month as a part of a limited UK tour.

Following her late husband's instructions to keep a journal of her feelings, June finds that grieving is not the straightforward process as she had imagined – especially when she finds herself surprisingly drawn to a stranger she sees wearing her husband's suit.

Penelope, winner of two BAFTAs and an Olivier Award, came to fame in the BBC's hugely popular comedy T*he Good Life* and went on to star in To The Manor Born.

Her recent stage work includes The Rivals, Entertaining Angels and The Importance of Being Earnest.

The cast also includes Christopher Ravenscroft, Jonathan Firth and Flora Montgomery.

Keith Waterhouse, an award-winning journalist and playwright, has had an extensive career.

His work for the stage includes Billy Liar, Our Song, Mr and Mrs Nobody and Jeffrey Bernard Is Unwell.

■ Good Grief, Cambridge Arts Theatre. Monday, November 5 to Saturday, November 10. Mon – Sat, 7.45pm and Sat, 2.30pm. Tickets £15/£25/£30/£35 Thur, 2.30pm £15/£20/£25/£30. Call (01223) 503333 / https://cambridgeartstheatre.purchase-tickets-online.co.uk/

The big film

certificate 12A, 2h23m

TIME waits for no man, not even the suave and sharply attired 007.
In the 50 years since Ian Fleming's debonair secret agent introduced himself to Sylvia Trench at a card table in Dr No, global politics have changed beyond recognition.
The Iron Curtain has fallen, the Cold War has thawed, China has emerged as a superpower and terrorism has shifted into the digital realm, forcing James Bond and his colleagues at MI6 to evolve.
The latest Bond, Daniel Craig, has rugged physicality in abundance, although his one-note interpretation of the spy has been criticised for lack of personality. While Skyfall will do nothing to dispel those concerns, it is undoubtedly the best instalment of Craig's tenure to date.
Director Sam Mendes sensibly surrounds his leading man with an ensemble of award-winning actors who bring gravitas and humour to their iconic roles.
With Bond reportedly killed in action, section chief M (Dame Judi Dench) pens an obituary as a political storm rages around her. A database of MI6 assets has fallen into the wrong hands, compromising undercover agents around the world.
This dereliction of duty puts M and Chief Of Staff Bill Tanner (Rory Kinnear) in the firing line and they are summoned to Westminster to give evidence before a committee including the new intelligence and security chief Mallory (Ralph Fiennes) and ambitious rival Clair Dowar (Helen McCrory).
While M fends off sustained attacks on her reputation, news filters through that Bond has survived and M engages him to track down menacing cyber terrorist Raoul Silva (Javier Bardem).
Working alongside Q (Ben Whishaw), Bond traverses the globe in search of Silva, crossing paths with the mysterious Severine (Berenice Marlohe) in a casino in Macau. And as the investigation continues, Bond unearths dark secrets from M's past that threaten to bring down the whole of MI6.
Skyfall looks stunning and brilliantly orchestrated action sequences, see Craig in his element. Mendes opens with a breathtaking 12-minute pre-credits sequence, which draws heavily from the Bourne franchise to propel Bond and field agent Eve (Naomie Harris) through the winding streets of Istanbul.
Bardem is deliciously camp and menacing, recalling classic villains of yore as he berates M for her deceptions in one breath and then guns down innocent bystanders without mercy.
Dench is wonderful and excels when she abandons her desk for the field of action. Supporting actress Oscar nominations have been bestowed for far less.
Whishaw asserts himself as a gadget geek with a terrific introductory scene in an art gallery, while Fiennes and Harris acquit themselves well.

Organic use for those autumn leaves

RECYCLING garden debris is one of the best and most economical ways of boosting your soil and now's the time to put your eco-friendly hat on and make some leaf mould out of fallen leaves.

Leaf mould is a humus-rich soil conditioner which makes a good mulch for beds and borders, although it provides few nutrients. Richer leaf moulds can be made by adding a few grass clippings.

Fallen leaves can be stored in a wire mesh bin, or packed into black polythene sacks which have been perforated to allow air in. The bags can be tied up and placed in the corner of the garden, where the leaves will decompose and can be used the following spring. Leaves which are left in open bins may take longer to decompose.

It's best to collect the leaves after it has rained to ensure good decomposition.

If you haven't a leaf vacuum which can suck them up, blow them out and shred them. A quick way of collecting them from the lawn is to use a lawnmower, which will shred leaves and add grass at the same time. Shredding will speed up the decay of tougher

by Hannah Stephenson

leaves such as horse chestnut, sweet chestnut and sycamore.

Thick evergreen leaves such as holly and cherry laurel need to be shredded and added to the normal compost heap. Pine needles break down extremely slowly – it may take three years before they are fully decomposed and ready to use, but they are excellent for use on acid-loving plants.

For the best leaf mould, use leaves from hornbeam, oak and beech. It's best to leave them for at least a year before using. If you leave them for two years or more, you should be left with a very fine crumbly leaf mould that can be used as a potting compost.

Of course, there are many other soil improvers you can use. Many gardeners make their own compost, while others splash out at garden centres on spent mushroom compost, horse manure and composted green waste.

In theory, you can compost anything organic, from kitchen peelings, teabags and coffee, to eggshells, ash, newspaper and cardboard, as well as garden trimmings, but never add fish or meat which may attract rats and leave out tough perennial weed roots, weed seeds and any diseased materials.

The bigger the heap and the more you put in at the same time, the faster the debris will break down. Start the heap off with something coarse and twiggy, to let in the air. Aim to add about half green materials to half dry, such as paper or straw.

Never add too many grass clippings or you'll end up with green sludge, but make sure the dry materials are kept moist. You need patience because it takes around a year to break down. Turn the heap every few weeks to help the material rot faster.

Adding bulky organic nutrients will boost your soil and should improve crops and give you better quality plants.

And it doesn't have to be all hard graft. A trial of soil improvers on both vegetables and plants by Gardening Which?, the Consumers' Association magazine, found that digging in the soil improver boosts the soil in the short term but spreading it over the area as a mulch has a longer-lasting effect.

CLEAN SWEEP: it is better to collect leaves after it has rained to ensure good decomposition and ensure richer leaf moulds.

YOUR GUIDE TO MOVING HOME

1 Moving home can be a complicated business and, in the hectic run to the big day, it is all too easy to forget something vital. The Property News offers their readers this handy checklist that should help avoid major pitfalls. We suggest you tick off the items as you deal with them...

WITH FOUR WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move.
- ☐ Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Notify British Telecom and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone facilities at your new home.
- ☐ Arrange for change of address cards to be printed.

WITH TWO WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Confirm all arrangements, times etc, for meter readings, disconnections and reconnections, with authorities and with your buyer and seller.
- ☐ Make sure you have a good stock of packing materials, including sturdy boxes and plenty of string and sticky tape.
- ☐ Begin to throw out unwanted items from attics, wardrobes. What you really don't want you may as well dump now, or send to charity. It's a great time for a good sort out!

WITH ONE WEEK TO GO:

- ☐ Send off change of address cards.
- ☐ Arrange and pay for automatic redirection of your mail by the Post Office.
- ☐ Cancel and pay up accounts for routine delivery services such as milk, groceries, fuel and your Cambridge Evening News. Re-organise these deliveries for your new address.
- ☐ Defrost refrigerators in preparation for move and, if you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.

WITH ONE DAY TO GO:

- ☐ Complete your packing except for those items you are likely to need overnight, and prepare a picnic for moving day.
- ☐ Have a large enough cash 'float' available to deal with unexpected expenses, and make sure you have collected documents and valuables together in a safe place.
- ☐ Cover carpets which are being left behind, so as to minimise damage during furniture removal.
- ☐ Check through previous lists to make sure nothing has been overlooked, then enjoy a worry-free early night!

2 ON MOVING DAY:

- ☐ Strip beds and pack bedding and nightclothes.
- ☐ Pack items for washing/toiletries.
- ☐ Take down curtains.
- ☐ Take up rugs, carpets, floor coverings, as required.
- ☐ Dismantle any light fittings etc., not included in the sale.
- ☐ Turn off electric appliances.
- ☐ Disconnect cooker.
- ☐ Turn off boiler/central heating.
- ☐ Turn off water.
- ☐ Read gas meter.
- ☐ Read electricity meter.
- ☐ Secure all windows.
- ☐ Lock all doors.
- ☐ Leave key as arranged with new owners.
- ☐ On arrival at your new home, unpack slowly and methodically so that you can check for loss or damage.

3 EXTRA HINTS FOR A SMOOTH MOVE...

WHO TO NOTIFY:

- ☐ Banks.
- ☐ Building Societies.
- ☐ Credit companies.
- ☐ Insurance companies.
- ☐ Gas, Electricity and Water Boards.
- ☐ Telephone company.
- ☐ Local Authority (Rating Department).
- ☐ Driving Licence authorities.
- ☐ Inland Revenue.
- ☐ Store cards and accounts.
- ☐ Other lease, hire or rental companies.
- ☐ Employer.
- ☐ Doctor.
- ☐ Dentist.

Pick of the day

Hatfields & McCoys

Channel 5, 9pm
New fact-based drama starring Kevin Costner and Bill Paxton, pictured, that chronicles the feud between two families. In the aftermath of the American Civil War, Confederate soldiers Anse Hatfield and Randall McCoy return home and embark on a battle that sees their clans come to blows over love, land and livestock – nearly pushing the states of Kentucky and West Virginia toward another conflict. With Mare Winningham, pictured.

The Town That Caught Tourette's

Channel 4, 9pm
In October 2011, a handful of students from the same high school in the small town of Le Roy, New York, developed the symptoms of Tourette's syndrome – facial twitching, violent limb gestures and uncontrollable verbal outbursts. The epidemic seemed to affect only teenage girls and the diagnosis was one of mass hysteria, where symptoms spread among vulnerable people in close proximity.

Pick of the day

Piers Morgan's Life Stories: Burt Reynolds

ITV1, 9pm

From 1978 to 1982, Burt Reynolds, pictured with Piers Morgan, was the biggest box-office draw in America and dated some of Hollywood's most glamorous actresses. Here he chats about his career and his belief that posing nude for Cosmopolitan magazine in 1972 cost him an Oscar, as well as discussing his addiction to prescription drugs and what it was like to be the highest-paid film actor in the world.

Derren Brown: Apocalypse

Channel 4, 9pm

He survived a game of live Russian roulette, 'predicted' the lottery numbers, stuck half the viewing audience to their sofas and taught a member of the public to fly a plane overnight. Now, Derren Brown returns with a new two-part special that is arguably his most audacious stunt yet, as he convinces one person that the planet has been devastated by a meteor strike and that he is only one of a handful of survivors.

Your Homesnow Guide to Moving Home

Moving home can be a complicated business and in the hectic run up to the big day it is all too easy to forget something vital. The Homesnow team offers their readers this handy checklist to help avoid any major pitfalls. We suggest you tick them off as you go....

www.homesnow.co.uk

1 4-2 WEEKS TO GO:

- ❑ Packing – start packing and sorting through your belongings. Now is a good time to de-clutter and pack items rarely used. Make sure you have plenty of sturdy boxes, bubble wrap and sticky tape.
- ❑ Removal companies – get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ❑ Insurance – check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ❑ Utilities – make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move. Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ❑ Telecommunications – Notify your telephone and broadband provider and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone and broadband facilities at your new home.
- ❑ Post – Look into re-directing your post for a few months to make sure you receive all relevant correspondence.
- ❑ Children – Look into the possibility of your children, especially young children, staying with family or friends on the day of the move.
- ❑ Pets – Make arrangements for any pets to be booked into a cattery or kennels if required. Having your pets microchipped is a good idea and if already microchipped, have the address changed to your new one. Your vet can advise on this.

Change of address – tell companies and organisations that you are moving!

Notify:

- ❑ Employer
- ❑ Inland revenue
- ❑ Local council
- ❑ Banks or Building Societies
- ❑ Credit companies, store cards & other accounts
- ❑ Gas, Electricity and water boards
- ❑ Insurance companies
- ❑ Land / mobile phones
- ❑ Internet and cable / satellite TV providers
- ❑ Doctor, Dentist and Opticians
- ❑ DVLA
- ❑ Veterinary surgery
- ❑ TV Licensing

3 1 WEEK TO GO:

- ❑ Delivery address – change delivery address of your Cambridge News, milk, groceries and fuel to your new address as appropriate.
- ❑ Laundry – do any last minute laundry that you can – have you arranged for a plumber to disconnect your washing machine correctly?
- ❑ Kitchen cupboards – go through your kitchen cupboards and throw out anything not in date. Also check that all jars and bottles are correctly sealed before packing.
- ❑ Fridges / Freezers – empty and clean out in preparation for moving. If you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.
- ❑ Valuables / documents – put these in safe place for moving day

4 2-1 DAYS TO GO:

- ❑ Packing – pack a bag for overnight essentials and toiletries and finish all remaining packing into boxes. Remember to label which room each box is destined for.
- ❑ Snack box – pack a box for the kitchen to include essentials like tea, coffee and sugar, as well as the kettle and mugs! Also include other snacks as necessary.
- ❑ Dismantle and disconnect – take down curtains, fixtures and fittings and disconnect white goods ready for transport.
- ❑ Outdoor items – make sure that these are stacked together and ready to be moved.
- ❑ Mobile – place your mobile on charge the night before moving and ensure that all relevant people have your number.

5 ON MOVING DAY:

AT YOUR OLD ADDRESS:

- ❑ Strip beds and pack bedding and nightclothes.
- ❑ Finish packing toiletries box.
- ❑ Direct removal firm personnel or friends helping you move as to what needs to be done.
- ❑ Turn off electric appliances.
- ❑ Disconnect cooker.
- ❑ Turn off boiler / central heating.
- ❑ Turn off water.
- ❑ Read gas meter.
- ❑ Read electricity meter.
- ❑ Secure all windows.
- ❑ Lock all doors.
- ❑ Make final checks and leave key as arranged with new owners.

AT YOUR NEW HOME:

- ❑ Open up & have a look around the new house.
- ❑ Locate fuse box, gas and electric meter and stop cock for reference.
- ❑ Take readings on gas, electric and water meters as appropriate.
- ❑ Organise the direction of boxes to appropriate rooms.
- ❑ Check the van after all is unloaded.
- ❑ Make the beds up for the evening.
- ❑ Sit down and relax – unpack the other boxes the next day.

Pick of the day

Harry & Paul

BBC2, 10pm

For one long-term fan of Messrs Harry Enfield and Paul Whitehouse, pictured, (who spent part of the 1990s reciting Smashie and Nicey catchphrases or doing bad Michael Caine impressions), recent runs of this series have been far from great. Let's hope things improve with the first of a new run. Among the highlights are another of their 1940-style sketches, and there's a parody of the Danish drama The Killing.

Great South Run

Channel 5, 10am

Katharine Merry is joined by David Moorcroft to present live coverage of the 10-mile run in Southsea, Portsmouth, which is set to feature a record field of 25,000 people. The annual competition, which has been won in the past by the likes of Mo Farah, Paula Radcliffe and Jo Pavey, takes in many of Portsmouth's famous landmarks such as the cathedral, Spinnaker Tower and HMS Victory, and is known for fast times due to the flat course.

Pick of the day

50 Years of Bond Cars: A Top Gear Special

BBC2, 9pm

As the name suggests, what we have here is a one-hour tribute to half a century of James Bond cars. It comes with presenter Richard Hammond, pictured, as standard, features plenty of classic clips from 007 epics, and the sort of motors that can leave viewers drooling. For example, who could forget the Aston Martin from Goldfinger, or the submersible Lotus from The Spy Who Loved Me?

New Tricks

BBC1, 9pm

In a special edition of the detective drama that features only two members of the team, Gerry Standing and Steve McAndrew travel to Glasgow, where a new UCOS section is being set up. While there, they agree to assist the investigation into the 1993 unsolved murder of James Soutar, the wealthy owner of a string of betting shops. Dennis Waterman and Denis Lawson star in the final episode of the series.

The Pride of Britain Awards 2012

ITV1, 8pm
Carol Vorderman, pictured, hosts the awards show from London's Grosvenor House, where Prince Charles joins some of the biggest names in TV, showbusiness, politics and sport, including Stephen Fry, Prime Minister David Cameron and David Beckham, to celebrate the nation's heroes. The winners include the stars of the Olympics and Paralympics and a girl who saved her four-year-old sister's life.

Jewish Mum of the Year

Channel 4, 9pm
The two remaining mums take turns to host a traditional Friday night dinner for a party of 16. The guests include their own families, celebrities David Baddiel and Jay Rayner, previous contestants from the competition, judges Tracy-Ann Oberman and Dovid Katz, and Jewish News editor Richard Ferrer. They must devise the menu, cook the food, lay the table and host the meal, but only one of them can take the title of Jewish Mum of the Year.

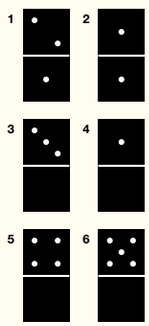
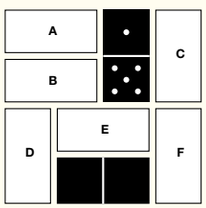
Each number in the Cross Code grid represents a different letter of the alphabet. You have three letters in the control grid to start you off. Enter them in the appropriate squares in the main grid, then use your knowledge of words to work out which letters should go in the missing squares.
As you get the letters, fill in other squares with the same number in the main grid and control grid. Check off the alphabetical list of letters as you identify them.

SPOT CHECK

Can you place the six dominoes (right) into the grid below in such a way that the number of spots in all four rows across and all four rows down totals the same?





PATHWORDS

Starting from the central shaded letter, move one letter at a time (up, down, right or left, but not diagonally) to find ten sculptors.

PERSONALITY PAIR-UP

Can you identify these six well-known personalities whose faces have been divided into two? Then, with the help of the three clues, can you pair the personalities into groups of two and also decide what links the members of each pair?
Score one point each for identifying who the personalities are, score a further point each for successfully pairing the three couples and a further point each for knowing the reasons why the personalities are linked. The maximum score is therefore 12 points.

CLUE 1

Are these agents two of 26 in total?

CLUE 2

KAKURO

Fill in the blank squares in the grid with numbers so that each horizontal or vertical line adds up to the total given in the box either to the left or above it. Horizontal totals are given in the top right corners of the shaded boxes; vertical totals in the bottom left corners.You can use the numbers 1 to 9, but may not use the same number more than once in any run. The number may be used again, however, in the same row or column but as part of another run.

LEAN: The latest Corsa EcoFlex's emissions figure is 26 per cent lower than five years ago

VAUXHALL has announced a new variant of the Corsa with lower CO2 emissions than any production Vauxhall except the Ampera.

Producing just 88g/km of carbon dioxide in three-door form, the latest Corsa 1.3 CDTi EcoFlex's figures are 26 per cent lower than those of the first Corsa EcoFlex five years ago.

Peak combined fuel consumption for the new model is 85.6mpg, again for the lighter three-door model. A five-door version is available with efficiency stats of 89g/km and 83.1mpg.

The three-door represents a 6g/km and 2.4mpg improvement over the 2011 version of the same car. All the improvements have come through small upgrades within the engine circuit.

All models are available to order now.

Round-up: Regional round-up from racing at Ascot to the

Dettori's free for title bid

in the world's richest race.

Dettori said: "Godolphin has been a major part of everything I have achieved in racing and I have loved every minute of it.

"I feel the time has come for a change. My position in the stable has changed a little bit and I need a new challenge.

"Sheikh Mohammed has been an unbelievable boss to me. He had the confidence to take me on board when I was young and we smashed every record together. I will be forever grateful to him for everything he has done for me and for my family."

Dettori has won 110 Group or Grade One races in the royal blue silks but this season has been sharing the Godolphin rides with other retained riders Mickael Barzalona and Silvestre de Sousa.

Most of his big-race winners have been trained by Saeed bin Suroor, including four in the rider's 'Magnificent Seven' at Ascot on September 28, 1996. Bin Suroor said: "We have been good friends and have travelled all over the world and have had great times. He has done a great job for Godolphin. It is sad but at the same time I wish him good luck. He is the best jockey in the world."

Get in the picture with the best in the business

GET a free memento of the world's finest racehorse today with the News.

Frankel ran his last race at Ascot on Saturday after a sensational unbeaten career spanning 14 races at the top level.

To commemorate the special occasion readers can order a greetings card with a picture of their choice from Frankel's glittering career.

Photographers from the Innovative Image Company are offering a selection of images from their collection which logs the racehorse's whole career. Simply go to www.lovefrankel.com and click on the 'news promo tab' and choose your favourite image.

The personalised Frankel card will then be posted to your home address free of charge. Colin Rosie, of the Innovative Image Company, said: "We have been following Frankel from his first race because we thought he was a special horse.

"Now everybody is talking about Frankel, but many people have never seen images of his first race. We will probably never see a horse like this in our lifetime."

■ If you haven't had your fix of Frankel, the Innovative Image Company will be exhibiting their full portfolio at the National Horseracing Museum, in Newmarket. The free exhibition will open its doors on November 19. For more information see www.lovefrankel.com

Frankel-y sensational

Verdict: "This time we saw his other side – Frankel the fighter"

GET IN: Tom Queally grits his teeth as Frankel surges clear in the testing conditions at Ascot PA

A DAY that began with uncertainty ended as a divine right of passage.

It is now almost a chilling notion to envisage what might have happened had the rain continued to fall at Ascot on Friday night.

Frankel would probably not have run in the QIPCO Champion Stakes and the final chapter in his extraordinary opus would have been left unwritten.

For once this year, the elements relented at just the right time, and the colt was given permission to sign off in one of the most compelling atmospheres ever experienced in British Flat racing.

If the 32,000 sell-out crowd were nervous as sangfroid jockey Tom Queally quietly nudged his mount towards the start, imagine how trainer Sir Henry Cecil must have felt.

There was also tension as the gates opened where Frankel missed the break and was fleetingly three lengths adrift of the field.

Queally must have heard the gasps and groans from the teeming grandstand. A weaker man could have panicked, a weaker horse almost certainly folded.

Seconds later, fluidity had reasserted itself as the Prince Khalid Abdullah-owned four-year-old glided peacefully into the fold.

Cirrus Des Aigles had done exceptionally well to keep the renowned pacemaker, Bullet Train, off the speed from an early stage in the race.

But once the honourable French contender had been overtaken by Frankel a furlong from home, thoughts then turned to by how far the great horse would win.

Sadly for some, there was no glorious procession as Queally's companion, clearly stifled by the exacting conditions, could not quicken in the manner to which we he have grown accustomed.

Spectacular it was not, but this length-and-three-quarters verdict was perhaps just as significant than anything he had achieved in his 13 other races.

At Ascot we got to see his other side – we got to see Frankel the fighter. Although he must now leave us to embark upon a stud vocation that will hopefully spike half as much interest as his racing career, the debate about his claims as being the greatest has seemingly only just begun.

The specifics of thoroughbred rankings can often be a messy business, out of which only the alleged experts, and those with far too much time on their hands, seem to take any pleasure.

When all said and done, who really cares if Frankel did not win by a landslide on his swansong?

Certainly not Cecil, whose raw instincts, at least in the joyous aftermath of this unique occasion, should be respected far more than pointless statistics and conjectural historical reference points. This is also why we should believe him when he says: "He's the best I've ever seen. I'd be surprised if there's ever been any better."

And if any more context were needed as to Frankel's place as the horse of modern times, it came when his regular whipping boy Excelebration – beaten five times by the great one – scorched to victory in the Queen Elizabeth II Stakes.

Newmarket happy with fourth

NEWMARKET pitted their strength against several larger clubs in the opening round of the National Arena League and were delighted to finish fourth in the six-team competition.

Swimming in their home pool, Newmarket's competitors racked up 17 personal bests as Notts Leander pipped them for third place behind the dominant Peterborough club, who finished well clear.

"Considering the strength and size of the opposing teams, this was an excellent result," said club chairman, Chris Bellwood.

Newmarket's personal bests came from:

Stuart Root (100m backstroke 1min 19.75sec, 100m butterfly 1.34.24, 100m freestyle 1.10.47, and 50m freestyle) 32.25, Safi Axon-Coates (50m freestyle, 36.70), Fred Kirk (50m freestyle, 39.76), Henry Newell (50m backstroke, 40.16, 50m freestyle 34.67), Sophie Bellwood (100m breaststroke, 1.35.42), Beth Sampher (100m backstroke, 1.14.11), Olivia Curtin (100m butterfly, 1.21.77), Josh Hall (100m breaststroke, 1.13.13), Harris Lister (50m breaststroke, 47.62), Matthew Lister (100m backstroke 1.23.11, 100m breaststroke 1.38.86), Harry Wagner (100m medley 1.09.01, 100m butterfly 1.11.13).

Final points: 1 Peterborough 256, 2 Wisbech 222, 3 Notts Leander 158, 4 Newmarket 151, 5 Beccles 131, 6 Thetford 125.

■ Peter Winter flew the club's colours in the sixth East Region Disability Championships, sponsored by Nationwide, at Newmarket Leisure Centre.

He made the most of home comforts in his build-up to the forthcoming nationals in Sheffield by producing four solid performances.

His highlights were the 100m backstroke, where he beat his entry time by a second, and the 50m freestyle, where he was nudged into second place by 0.01sec.

Marathon men hit new peaks

A CLUTCH of personal bests were the reward for a number of Newmarket Joggers as they tackled the maximum distance and different locations.

Three Joggers went to Oxfordshire for the Abingdon Marathon, where Matthew Harvey proved he has recovered from the injury suffered in the London Marathon by clocking 2hr 47min 35sec to finish 15th.

Martyn Taylor lowered his best time by more than nine minutes when he finished in 3.01.51 – he crossed the line 102nd – while Nik Chapman eclipsed that by slicing more than 17min off his best when he clocked 3:32.51 (322nd).

And Denys Olefir was also celebrating after becoming the sixth Jogger this year to dip below the magical elite-runner 3hr mark.

He maintained his recent form, which has produced personal best times over different distances, and stopped the clock at 2:52.57 in the GYRR Marathon at Great Yarmouth.

Not only was he fourth in the 177-runner field, but he also cropped almost 20min off his previous best time.

The Joggers were represented at the Thurlow 10, a scenic race over road and trail organised by Haverhill Running Club.

Ben Blowes led the Newmarket challenge, finishing ninth overall and first Mv40 in 1:05.09.

Clive Purbrook was next home in in 1:17.05 (47th) with Belinda Schofield scooped another age-group prize, clocking 1:28.39 to top the Fv55 lists.

Rutland 2 Newmarket Tn 4
EAST MEN'S LEAGUE, DIVISION 3NW

GUILE and experience won the day as Newmarket ended Rutland's unbeaten record.

Against a young side whose oldest player was 24 – a couple of years older than Town's youngest – the visitors initially attempted to get their heads down for the first 15 minutes to give themselves a solid base.

The opposite was the case though as Rutland poured forward, only lacking a cutting edge in the final third to make their opponents suffer.

However, Town went ahead against the run of play, Mike Skelton sweeping Josh Dawson's cross into the roof of the net and then quickly added another, this time Harry Bell driving down the right flank with Skelton producing a copy-book finish.

And then from a penalty corner, Skelton stopped Matt Holden's injection for Will Wilson to flick the ball inside the left-hand post.

Just before the break Rutland scored from a heavily-debated penalty corner and then soon after hit the post from another.

But Newmarket restored their three-goal advantage when Alex Andreou robbed a defender in midfield and found Skelton who played a one-two with Holden before completing his hat-trick. Rutland did not give up and although they struggled to breach the visitors' defence in open play, they managed to force a number of penalty corners only to find keeper Chris Routs in outstanding form.

The keeper almost kept out Rutland's second goal, blocking a shot only for the ball to roll over the line before covering defenders could get to it.

CAMBS WOMEN'S LEAGUE, PREMIER DIVISION

LOWLY Huntingdon proved to be tougher opposition than their league position suggested and it was not until the secod half that Newmarket finally put the game to bed.

They took the lead from a penalty – Louise Downs scoring after Angel Fayers' shot was stopped on the line by a foot – but were pegged back soon after the break.

Di Thomas, though, put Town back in front, pouncing on a rebound after superb link play between Gail Parkins, Tania Fisher and Hayley Stoneman.

The killer goal was expertly scored by Beth Wombwell after a move instigated by Isabel Hooley. Her pass from defence found Kerry Alderson, who passed to Stoneman and she channeled the ball well before putting in the scorer.

A SOLITARY goal from Tracy Cockerill kept unbeaten Newmarket top of the table.

However, they had to thank goalkeeper Sue Bullimore for keeping them afloat after a scruffy and shaky start.

They only goal came in the second half after Town had managed to play their way back into the game.

Cassie Edgar-Ayms' swift pass from the halfway line found Cockerill, who worked her way upfield before firing a shot from top D into the corner of the net.

Jockeys in right Lane to snatch vital draw

Cambridge University Press 2 Newmarket Tn 2
THURLOW NUNN LEAGUE, FIRST DIVISION

JAMES Lane ensured a point for Newmarket as they came from two goals down in their top-of-the-table clash with Cambridge University Press on Saturday.

Sam Sabey gave CUP the edge on 20 minutes from Ross Paterson's cross, and Lee Clift doubled the table-toppers' advantage by knocking home another Paterson cross 10 minutes into the second half.

Tony Brown reduced the deficit for the Jockeys soon after following a run from midfield, before Lane fired home the equaliser from the left side of the area five minutes from time.

Press manager Graham Daniels said: "At 2-0 down, they could have just kept it tight and looked to nick one, but they took a risk and it paid off, so credit to Newmarket for that."

Kevin Grainger, Newmarket boss, said: "We were very lucky to get anything out of the game, but we've got to be pleased we're still unbeaten." The Jockeys are at home to Brightlingsea in the league on Saturday.

Mildenhall 2 Woodbridge Town 1
THURLOW NUNN LEAGUE, PREMIER DIVISION

ANDREW Wood bagged both goals as Mildenhall went top of the table following their triumph over Woodbridge Town.

Adarian Judge was forced to clear a shot off the line early on, but Chris Thomas and Wood both went close for the hosts soon after.

Wood blasted in off the bar from 30 yards on 20 minutes, but the visitors levelled after the break with a penalty after Michael Harvey was adjudged to have hacked down a Woodbridge striker in the area.

Mildenhall looked set to go back in front when Wood was about to shoot from close range, only for the whistle to blow for a drop-ball from an earlier incident.

But Wood clinched the win with a diving header from eight yards from Thomas' cross.

Mildenhall travel to Haverhill Rovers on Saturday.

Dynamic duo fire treble bid

Mildenhall 54 Stoke 37
NATIONAL TROPHY

MILDENHALL are on the verge of their third piece of silverware of the season, after defeating Stoke 54-37 in the National Trophy at Loomer Road Stadium on Saturday.

The Fen Tigers are seven points clear of the Potters, who are now their only rivals after Isle of Wight's defeat by Buxton ruled them out of the race.

Mildenhall need only to avoid a heavy reverse at home to the Potters a week today (rescheduled after Friday's rain-off) to clinch the trophy.

Mildenhall were always in control of the match, opening a nine-point lead by heat seven with a home rider failing to win a race until then.

Joe Jacobs inspired the team with four wins and a couple of heat maximums, but it was reserve Josh Bates, who had won his opening race, who caught the attention in the latter stages.

He kept experienced home men James Cockle and Tony Atkin at bay in heats nine and 11 respectively, the latter to deny the Potters a tactical success, to underline his progress this season and his importance to the team in the midweek clashes with Dudley.

"Josh was fast, in control and looked the business," enthused Tigers' chairman Kevin Jolly. "He can be really crucial for us in these upcoming fixtures. He tweaked his wrist a bit but if we can keep him on the bike he can score us some big points."

The play-off final first leg was at Dudley last night and was followed by the second leg of the Knockout Cup final where Mildenhall were due to defend a 28-point lead. The deciding leg of the play-off final is at King's Lynn tonight (Wednesday, 7.30pm) as the West row track is unfit.

Stoke – Atkin 12 (5 rides), Reade 6 (5), Carr 5 (4), Cockle 5 (4), Rumsey 4+2 (7), Irving 4 (3), Braithwaite 1+1 (1).
Mildenhall – Jacobs 15 (6), Nielsen 11+1 (5), Bates 10 (5), Kerr 8+1 (4), Halsey 7+3 (5), Terry-Daley 3+1 (5).

GREENE KING IPA EASTERN COUNTIES LEAGUE, DIVISION ONE

NEWMARKET'S first-team manager Gareth Godfrey is puzzled by his side's away form.

Brian Abbott claimed a try in the second half and Jack Wade added eight points with his boot, but a poor start to the game cost them dear.

"We gifted them two fairly soft early tries and, from that point on, we were up against it," said Godfrey. "It's a theme away from home, but not at home, so it's baffling me a bit."

Team Frankel should mop up at BBC awards: bookies

BOOKMAKERS intend to put their full weight behind a campaign to have Frankel and his trainer Sir Henry Cecil's achievements marked across the general sporting world.

In 2010 racing pulled together to help champion National Hunt jockey Tony McCoy to become BBC Sports Personality of the Year.

Now a similar task is needed to propel Team Frankel into the mindset of the sports public in a year that has seen so many iconic feats in events such as the Olympics and the Ryder Cup.

"We are offering 8-1 that Sir Henry Cecil gets a special lifetime achievement award and we are also offering 10-1 for Team Frankel (Sir Henry, Frankel and Tom Queally) to be the BBC's team of the year," said David Williams of Ladbrokes.

"It's been some year with the Olympics and the Ryder Cup, so there is plenty of competition, but the fact we are mentioning racing in the same breath as those is testimony to what the Frankel team has achieved.

"When Tony McCoy won the main award racing galvanised itself to get organised and try to get a campaign going to get him over the line.

Frankel said farewell to racing before he embarks on a career at stud by stretching his unbeaten record to 14 with another breathtaking performance in the QIPCO Champion Stakes in front of a full house at Ascot on Saturday.

Williams saluted a horse that has done so much for the sport and feels racing should cash in on his popularity.

"He is the best thing that has happened to this sport for a good many years," he said. "Racing usually only gets its hour in the sun on Grand National day and maybe Derby day and the Cheltenham Festival. All of a sudden racing is on the front pages and for the right reasons.

"We have to keep up the momentum."

Frankel will now have a short break before commencing duties at Prince Khalid Abdullah's Banstead Manor Stud in Newmarket.

And already he has been shortlisted for a date with the other giant of the equine world, the similarly-unbeaten Australian superstar Black Caviar, once time is called on her unblemished 22-race career.

"We would consider going to Frankel because he is clearly the best distance horse in the world," said Neil Werrett, Black Caviar's co-owner.

"There would have to be a few conditions that would have to be worked out to make it happen, but the two best horses in the world together – that would be something."

Godolphin exit frees Frankie for title bid: agent

FRANKIE Dettori could attempt to become champion jockey for a fourth time after the end of his long association with Godolphin was announced on Sunday.

The Italian is going freelance next year after being retained by Sheikh Mohammed's operation for the last 18 years, during which time he won the title three times in 1994, 1995 and 2004.

His agent, ex-jockey Ray Cochrane, believes Dettori (right) still has plenty to offer and an attempt at winning the title could be on the cards.

"We will set our sights on winning most of the big races, if we can do, and will have a crack at being champion jockey," he said.

"It shouldn't be too hard for him – he's ridden more than 200 winners before.

"The biggest thing of not being retained by Godolphin is that I can kick on five days in advance and make it my aim for him to ride the best horses.

"Godolphin didn't let me know what he's riding until 48 hours beforehand.

"He rides for a hell of a lot of trainers here in Newmarket and has links all over the world, so he won't go short of work."

The Italian jockey rode nine English Classic winners for Godolphin and partnered the great Dubai Millennium to glory in the Dubai World Cup of 2000, one of his three wins

Huff's push still on the boil

ROB Huff remains in contention for the title after the latest round of the World Touring Car Championship in Japan.

The Newmarket-based racer is tied at the top with defending champion and Chevrolet team-mate Yvan Muller on 345 points after the two races on the Suzuka circuit.

In the opening race, Chevrolet had a clean sweep of the podium, Huff having to settle for third behind winner Alain Menu, with Muller runner-up.

Starting from rows four and five in the second race on a notoriously difficult track for overtaking, Huff led the Chevrolets home in fourth after getting past Proteam Racing BMW's Mehdi Bennani three laps from home, with Menu fifth and Muller sixth.

But it leaves the championship on a knife-edge between the three Chevrolet drivers with four races left in China and Macau. Behind Huff and Muller, Menu clawied back 10 points to move up to 307 points.

Such dominance means that the team which will quit WTTC at the end of the season has wrapped up the constructors' championship for the third year in a row.
